Kharge new Cong chief; Tharoor camp cries foul apanna Mallikarjun Kharge (80) will be the new president ▲ of the Congress after an electoral college of 9,385 voters elected him: he got 7,897 votes, leaving his only rival, Shashi Tharoor, far behind at (1,072) votes; 416 votes were declared invalid.

 $He \, is \, the \, first \, non\text{-}Gandhi$ president of the party in more than 20 years.

Many had predicted Kharge's victory, but the party's Member of Parliament Rahul Gandhi, currently on a padavatra in Andhra Pradesh, clearly expected Kharge to win.

"The president is the supreme authority in the Congress and everyone reports to him. The Congress president will decide what my role is and how I will be deployed," he told reporters.

The election, however, was not without controversy.

Leading questions

ADITI PHADNIS

New Delhi, 19 October

He's won many elections: But can he also get the Congress to win them? This is the question party members are asking themselves as Mallikarjun Kharge becomes the first non-Gandhi president of the Congress in two decades, and only the sixth elected one in the party's history.

Barring the Lok Sabha election in 2019, when he lost his home borough, Gulbarga, to the BJP, Kharge has never lost an election. He won from Gurmitkal Assembly constituency in Karnataka nine times in a row before he plunged into the Lok Sabha poll arena in 2009. He won from Karnataka's Gulbarga in 2014 when the tide was against the Congress.

That said, Kharge has his share of regret: that despite winning so consistently from his home state, he never managed to get the top job. What he really wanted was to become chief minister — from 1972 when he first came into the Assembly and became a minister in the Devaraj Urs government in 1976. He was a minister in the Gundu Rao ministry in 1980, the S Bangarappa Cabinet in 1990 and in the M Veerappa Moily government from 1992 to 1994. His role changed in 1994 when he became the opposition leader in the Assembly In 1999 he was among the contenders for chief minister but was pipped at the post by S M Krishna. In 2004, it was Dharam Singh who bested him. In 2013, the BJP government in Karnataka fell but again, Kharge lost the chance. Siddaramaiah got the top job.

Kharge began life as a trade union lawyer and knows what it is to struggle. He doesn't like to be reminded that he's a Dalit. But the story of his life and times is impressive.

Scheduled castes (SC) and tribes (ST) in Karnataka together constitute 23.5 per cent and account for 18 per cent reservation in government and educational sectors (15 per cent for SCs and 3 per cent for STs). But the SC divide in Karnataka is broadly divided into Right Hand (Holeyars) and Left Hand (Madigas) Dalits. The Holeyars (the right-hand Dalits) shun the Madigas in all the ways in which the upper castes shun them: there is no inter-marriage, interdining or social relations between the two sub-castes. Moreover, the Left Dalits feel the Right Dalits corner all the benefits of reservation. Most of the Dalit Congress leaders in Karnataka, Kharge included,

From 2014 to 2019, Kharge fought insult, humiliation and worse on behalf of the Congress. The party did not have the numbers in 2014, to qualify to become the leader of the Opposition: Congress could get only 44 seats when it was required to get at least 55 seats of 10 per cent of the total strength of the House to qualify for the position of Leader of Opposition.

are Right Dalits. The net result is:

the Left Dalits have all crossed over to the BJP.

So although his party named him as such, he was never recognised as one by Speaker Sumitra Mahajan. here are several committees or which the presence of the Leader of Opposition is mandatory — to select the chief of the Central Bureau of Investigation and the Central Vigilance Commissioner to name just two. He boycotted the meetings to select the Lokpal because he was invited to participate as a "special invitee" with no powers, since he was not recognised as the Leader of the Opposition.

When he lost the Lok Sabha election, the Congress offered him a seat in the Rajva Sabha. Here, too, he was Kharge is patient and gracious: Without a trace of vindictiveness, he sought out his rival Shashi Tharoor even before the Gandhi family had a chance to felicitate him. The less charitable in the party say he owes his present appointment to the grace of Sonia Gandhi — the family wanted someone who wouldn't talk back, would not exert himself too much, basically an unquestioning, unthreatening loyalist. Now that he's got the job, his problems have increased manifold: he will have to sort out the leadership problems in Rajasthan where the party is facing deep internal rebellion; Chhattisgarh (ditto) and lead the party to victory in the dozen or so upcoming Assembly elections, including in his home state, Karnataka.

"I hope Kharge will use his electoral and administrative experience in strengthening the Congress and take it to new heights. I am confident that he will renew the consultative process that existed in the party earlier," former Maharashtra chief minister, Prithivraj Chavan said.

Party sources said he had three choices: one, to act as a rubber stamp on decisions taken by the Gandhi family; two, to stonewall many of these with resolve and be his own man; three, the lay himself down as a bridge over troubled waters, a connect between the family and the party like Ahmad Patel

Social media platforms will also have to prominently publish their rules, regulations, privacy policy, and user agreement in English or any of the 22 official languages listed in the eighth schedule of the Constitution, as per the choice of the user, the source added.

It further says the intermediaries should make "reasonable efforts" to deter users from sharing content that is obscene, pornographic, paedophilic, invasive of another's privacy, etc.

The IT rules require significant social media intermediaries (SSMIs) — platforms with more than 5 million users — to appoint a resident grievance officer to decide on contentrelated complaints. In June, which should be completed in the Ministry of Electronics and a day or two," the official added.

Information Technology (MeitY) proposed a GAC that could override the decisions of grievance officers.

The ministry had stated that there was a need for a GAC as it had observed many instances where grievance officers of intermediaries had not addressed grievances satisfactorily.

Several big social media outfits had opposed the GACs and other provisions in part 2 of the rules, expressing concerns over a possible compliance burden. However, the government had earlier suggested that the industry come up with a self-regulatory organisation.

Sources familiar with the matter said the amendments were approved after deliberations between the department of legal affairs and MeitY on the question of introducing GACs under the rules.

"The department of legal affairs sent back the rules to the ministry suggesting corrections in the format of the rules and the writing of the document. It also expressed concerns about the provision of GACs. It further said there was a risk of this being challenged in a court of law," the source.

"The final version of the rules is now being translated into Hindi for the Gazette,
